STAND UP FOR AFRICAN MOTHERS

AMREF Better Health for Africa

The campaign | The organisation | Support a midwife | Get involved | Partners

Give a baby in Africa a chance at life. Their Mother.

SIGN THE PETITION

Nominate Ugandan Midwife Esther Madudu for the 2015 Nobel Peace Prize!

THE APPEAL

Every year in Sub-Saharan Africa, about 300,000 mothers die as a result of complications during pregnancy and childbirth. Because of this, each year around one million children are left without a mother. Most of these deaths are easily preventable as they are the result of a simple lack of access to basic medical care.

Midwives Save Lives

With the Stand Up for African Mothers campaign, AMREF aims to train 15,000 additional African midwives by 2015. Once trained, we expect these midwives to be able to provide care for and health education to over seven million women each year.

A healthy Africa needs healthy mothers and African mothers need African midwives.
